1	12:05	TIPS & TRICKS - RECAP
Last Time	Fast Charging and Adaptive Charging

Is fast charging a good thing?

Yes for convenience, No for overall battery longevity.

Heat is your battery's worst enemy (in fact extreme temp changes in general are bad)

Current generation mobiles are designed to handle fast charging better

- Get a good certified charger (cheapies might not have the protection circuitry).
- Best to charge your phone slowly overnight
- Use fast charging during the day for top-ups if you need to
- Battery sweet spot 20-80%

Some phones have adaptive charging which when used with slow charging overnight and your wake-up alarms can optimise battery charging and help promote a longer overall battery life.

3	12:23	NEWS 1 - Google goes Password-less

Passkeys are the latest trend helping us break free from passwords. The big 3 - Apple, Microsoft and Google have been working on this tech and now Google has made it available for Google Users.

According to Christiaan Brand and Sriram Karra, two Google executives who oversaw the project, "Passkeys are the beginning of the end for passwords," eBay, Docusign, Paypal and Shopify all have passkey technology ready to go.

How does it work? Passkeys basically use the existing security on your devices e.g. Login Pin, Biometric scan, face scan and then verify you as a valid user which then qualifies you to access registered services without any additional password prompting.

This could be the end to having to prove you are human every time you want to login to a website.

Early days, but looks promising

On a side note, Google will be entering the Fold...

...with the Google Pixel Fold phone with an announcement coming on Thursday.

STINGER	NEWS 2 - AI

The Biden administration today announced a new effort to address the risks around generative artificial intelligence (AI).

AI has been advancing at breakneck speeds, and while this has brought about many exciting advancements and possibilities, it has also set off alarm bells among those who are worried about the potential risks and dangers associated with this technology.

Broadly speaking, as these systems become more intelligent, they will be able to analyse vast amounts of data, including personal information, to uncover patterns and make predictions. If these systems are not adequately secured, there is a risk that this information could be misused, leading to serious privacy violations.

To tackle this issue head-on, Vice President Kamala Harris and other administration officials are set to meet with the CEOs of several AI companies, including Google, Microsoft, OpenAI, and Anthropic, a startup that specialises in AI development.

The aim of this meeting is to discuss the responsibility that these companies have in ensuring that their AI products are both safe and capable of protecting the privacy of US citizens and hopefully everyone else.

STINGER	NEWS 3 - Wanna try ChatGPT?

Well, Microsoft has opened up its AI offering to everyone and have removed the waitlist for access... and you can access it via the Edge browser for free. This move puts Microsoft ahead of the others (e.g. Bard) hoping to eat a larger slice of the internet searching pie going forward.

Bing Chat has also been updated to save chat history and there's a new toolbar to make access to these new options much easier.

5	12:47	TECH HISTORY - WHAT HAPPENED THIS WEEK

2000: The Love Letter computer virus, aka the "ILOVEYOU" bug, spreads to personal computers running Windows around the world in just six hours. Spreading through e-mail, the virus entices victims to open the message with the subject of "ILOVEYOU". About 2.5 to 3 million PCs will become infected. The cost of system downtime is later estimated at $8.7 billion. It is thought to have been the fastest-moving and most widespread virus in history.

1984: Dell Computer Corporation is founded by Michael Dell, running the direct-to-order PC company from his dorm room. Using this innovative direct-to-order model, Dell, Inc. eventually became the largest manufacturer of PCs in the world for many years. Through ups and downs, it is still currently in the top 3 as of 2022 in market share for personal computers.

1978: The first recorded unsolicited spam email was sent from Gary Thuerk, a marketing representative for Digital Equipment Corporation. It brought a quick and negative response from many users and Thuerk was warned by ARPANET (INTERNET) administrators that mass mailings were not an acceptable use of the network. Nevertheless it resulted in $12 million of DEC equipment being sold!

5b	MUSIC HISTORY - WHAT HAPPENED THIS WEEK

1978: the soundtrack to Saturday Night Fever began an astonishing 18-week straight run at the top of the UK album chart. Across the Atlantic, it spent an unbroken 24-week run atop the Billboard 200, and, was well on its way to being certified 16x Platinum by the RIAA.

2002: 'Bohemian Rhapsody' by Queen was voted the UK's favourite single of all time in a poll by the Guinness Hit Singles book. 'Imagine' by John Lennon was voted in at No.2 and 'Hey Jude', The Beatles No.3, 'Dancing Queen' by ABBA was fourth and Madonna 'Like A Prayer' was in fifth place.

If today is your birthday, you share it with:

Bob Seger in 1945. This American singer-songwriter, guitarist and pianist, scored the 1977 hit 'Night Moves', the 1987, US No.1 single 'Shakedown', taken from the film Beverly Hills Cop II, and the 1995 hit single 'We've Got Tonight'. Seger has sold more than 100 million records worldwide.

7	13:08	FUTURE TECH from the Innovation Hub - Brain Reading

From the science fiction files...

Brain reading technology is an innovation that has been making significant strides in recent years. This technology has come a long way and is now being used in practical and interesting ways. One of the most promising applications has been developed by researchers at the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology Lausanne (EPFL). They have created a means for tetraplegic patients to interact with the world using a machine-learning algorithm, a robot arm, and a brain-computer interface.

(Tetraplegic patients are those who are unable to move their upper or lower body) This means that they are often confined to a wheelchair and have limited means of interacting with the world around them. However, thanks to this new technology, tetraplegic patients can now control a robot arm using their brain signals.

In tests, the robot arm was able to perform simple tasks like moving around an obstacle. The algorithm would then interpret the signals from the patient's brain using an EEG cap and determine when the arm had made a move that the brain considered incorrect. For example, if the arm moved too close to the obstacle or went too fast, the algorithm would detect this and adjust accordingly.

Over time, the algorithm can learn the patient's preferences and adapt to their individual brain signals. This means that in the future, the technology could be used to control wheelchairs using brain signals, or even to operate other assistance machines.

This breakthrough in brain reading technology has significant implications for the lives of tetraplegic patients, providing them with greater independence and control over their surroundings. It also has the potential to revolutionise the field of robotics and assistive technology by allowing people with disabilities to interact with the world in new and exciting ways.

The Ecology Shoe made by Japanese company Denso is a small vacuum inside a very large, outer sole.

At the heel is a small pedal, which is connected to gears. Every step you take, powers the vacuum motor, allowing it to suck up small pieces of debris at a time.

All the dirt resides in a small dust box no bigger than a Tic Tac mint box. It's also inside the sole and can be emptied out.

-----------	--------------	---------------------------------------

Theme	Game Music - Angry Birds Theme
--------------	---------------------------------------

	Originally released in 2001, the game focuses on a flock of colourful angry birds who try to save their eggs from green-coloured pigs. There have been many spinoff versions with the latest in 2022 called Angry Birds Journey. Available for Windows, Android, Apple from the stores or play online https://www.angrybirds.com/play/

In each stage of the gameplay, the pigs are sheltered by structures made of various materials such as wood, glass and stone resembling children's toy building blocks. The objective of the game is to eliminate all the pigs on the level.

Using a slingshot, players launch a limited set of birds with the goal of either striking the enemy pigs directly or damaging their surrounding structures, causing the blocks to collapse and pop the pigs.

The player must set the angle and force of the bird's travel by pulling back on the slingshot.

Each of the birds and pigs have names. Red J Bird, The Blue Birds - Jay, Jake and Jim, Chuck Yellow Bird, Black Bird (Bomb Bird), Matilda (White Bird), Hal, Terence, bubbles, stella and others...

For the pigs: King pig (King smooth cheeks), Ross, Leonard and others...

SONG	Frontman Olly Alexander said: "When we recorded [the song], no one felt good about it. It sounds lame! And we could never fix it. We shelved it for awhile. When we came back to it, we just took a different approach: 'Let's try to make it an Eighties dance-pop track.' And we just started out with that, cut it all up, arranged it. Used that flute vibe, like a bird in the forest." Years & Years - King (2015)
